

WWF and Pro Tuggen:

Only very few parts - silted up and overgrown with bushes - of the old Linth river remain. The wetlands that were still there 1860 are mostly dried up and gone. With them the diversity of fauna and flora have disappeared.

WWF Schwyz and Pro Tuggen joined together to reanimate the old course of the Linth in the project «Alte Linthläufe». In spring 2010 a new habitat for rare plants and animals will be established and observations points for visitors will be ready.
